Alcohol sales remain banned at Rat

By Mike Gluckman
Correspondent

The sale of alcoholic beverages at the Ratskeller remains banned following an incident on March 3, 1989, which led to 11 arrests by New Jersey State Police and one arrest by Montclair State Campus Police after officers checked student ID's.

Lt. Michael Postaski of campus police said the State Police were conducting a surprise visit at the Ratskeller last spring. "The officers had to actually witness underage drinking," he said.

According to Mary Jane Linnehan, President of the Student Government Association, officials of the Alcohol and Beverage Control Commission (ABC) "found underage people drinking at the Ratskeller".

Dr. Edward C. Martin, Dean of Students, said it was a "college decision" to end alcohol nights at the Ratskeller following the ABC action. "The matter is still in the process of appeal with the ABC," said Martin. "There are two main factors why there are no alcohol sales presently going on at the Ratskeller. The first is that we still await a ruling on the complaint filed by the ABC and the second is, the incident itself has led many to question the place that alcohol has at an educational institution."

Linnehan said student input is "very important before any decision is made about the future of alcohol at the Ratskeller. I believe that with work and good programming, the Ratskeller can be successful without the sale of alcohol."

"We (the SGA) plan to have a student committee put together to discuss the issue as well as a survey that we plan to put out to the students, to see what they want and what their opinion is," Linnehan added.

Martin said that a non-alcoholic night could be an "absolute" success.

Some students on campus last night were not as optimistic as Martin. "The people on campus will now be drinking and driving. They can't drink in the dorms, and now they can't in the Rat, either," said Kevin Verbeke, a junior home economics major.

"I feel sorry for the people who live on campus. Now there's nothing to do here. This is really going to become a weekend suitcase college," said Tracy Dattoli, a senior home economics major, referring to the tendency of residents to return home every weekend.

The college has continued an indefinite ban on the sale of alcohol at the Ratskeller, pictured above, following a police raid on the bar last semester.

Faculty prepares for possible strike

By Mike Gluckman
Correspondent

Some five hundred Montclair State College instructors may join a faculty strike of New Jersey's nine state colleges if halted contract negotiations with the state do not resume, union leaders said yesterday.

Dr. Catherine Becker, President of American Federation of Teachers local 1904, which represents about 540 faculty members, librarians, and professional staff people at MSC, said, "Though we still hope to reach a negotiated settlement, preparations are underway for us to strike."

Dr. Becker said, "Between 50 and 75 faculty members from Montclair State are planning to attend a demonstration on Friday, Sept. 22 at Edison State College, which is the site of the meeting of the Board of Higher Education" on that day.

The three major issues the union opposes are: low salaries, the establishment of a new "superprofessor" title, and the institution of a new multiple-pay range system.

Becker said that, "25 percent of new contracts for public school teachers in New Jersey have a higher top salary than the $54,688 that a top professor would receive. That top salary is for a full professor that has had between 10 and 15 years experience, has a Ph.D., and has had published works."

The establishment of a new "superprofessor" title is opposed by the union because, as Dr. Becker explained, "The plan would bring in famous people to teach and would pay these people exorbitant amounts of money while adding nothing to the available salary pool, in effect taking away from the salary of those already here."

She added that a move like this would be "very demoralizing to the people who worked so hard to get where they are now." The state also wants to institute a multiple pay range system for the faculty. This is opposed by the union because it would lead to a situation where professors with certain credentials would make more money than one with the same credentials.

Dr. Joseph Moore, the former president of Local 1904 at MSC said, "If this demonstration does not get negotiations moving again, then we will strike." Dr. Moore added that he expects several faculty members to give their classes library assignments so that they can attend the demonstration in Trenton this Friday.

During the nearly twenty years in which the AFT has been bargaining collectively with the state, the union has struck twice. One strike lasted 8 days while the other lasted only 1 day.

Hispanic Caucus welcomes new faculty

By Laura Elhilow
Correspondent

The Hispanic Caucus executive board "proudly acknowledged" the arrival of seven new Latin American faculty members at MSC this Fall at their first meeting on Sept 14.

Caucus President Jose Magdaleno called the additional staffing "a big step in the right direction" and "a breakthrough" for the Hispanic community.

"I have been here since 1981. Some years there have been 11 Hispanic instructors and some years 13, but the number has never exceeded 12," Magdaleno said.

Some twenty members of the campus-wide organization also gathered to discuss programming including a reception for President Irvin Reid Sept. 26, to be co-sponsored with the African-American Caucus.

"This is a good way to introduce him to our minority community," one member said. Organizers expect a "low key, but exciting evening" with 100 to 110 people in present.

Also on the agenda was an annual Hispanic Recruitment Day, scheduled for November 14, when an estimated 200 to 300 New Jersey high school sophomores and juniors visiting the campus will be encouraged to attend Montclair State College or college in general.

Organized by the admissions department and 17 high schools, the event includes a tour of the campus, a sample of the cafeteria food and workshops run by MSC faculty and staff.

Jose Magdaleno, Hispanic Caucus president, said of the workshops "the young will benefit a great deal from seeing concerned people."

Reid pays surprise visit to SGA

By Mike Gluckman
Correspondent

Prior to the SGA president's report, Montclair State College president Irvin Reid paid a surprise visit to the legislature on Wednesday night, Sept. 20.

"I think this will be an exciting year on campus," Reid said. "I will do anything I can to help. I know there will be some controversy and some heated debate. If there were none, we would not be in an academic environment."

"We will all be better off" for having coped with such problems, he said.

With respect to the fighting that occurred at Friday, Sept. 15 outside the Black Student Cooperative Union dance in which two campus police officers were injured, SGA president Mary Jane Linnehan said, "We must work to have better security at these events in the future."

In other business, Jonathan Rothman was nominated for homecoming king and Jennifer McCall for homecoming queen.

Regarding a proposed $5,000 appropriation to the Child Care Center at Stone Hall SGA, Linnehan said, "Five thousand dollars is a lot of money and it would only be for one year." She added that, "The SGA will work to try to organize alternative funding for the center."

Perhaps through corporations or through the faculty co-op foundation on campus."

In other business, the legislature elected Margaret Kurdlya as president pro-tempore, which makes Kurdlya the leader of the legislative body, liaison between the legislature and the executive board, and head of the constitutional review committee.

Upcoming events include a voter registration drive to be held by the SGA on Monday, Sept. 25, as well as a Montclair State Night at the Meadowlands Race Track on Friday.

MSC President Irvin Reid, right, and Montclair State College Staff Association president Joseph E. McGinty, left, at a reception given by the staff association in honor of Reid.

Personal Growth Workshops

The Psychological Services Center will offer five workshops designed to help students manage academic stress and develop their potential. Each one helps the participants take a close look at one dimension of their lives and make whatever changes are necessary. They will meet one hour a week for six weeks. These workshops are in addition to the regular program of individual and group counseling and psychotherapy offered by the Psychological Services Center.

Adult Children of Alcoholics

Participants will have the opportunity to think about how their development was different from that of others, how they can break the cycle, and how they can more effectively deal with the alcoholics in their families. Time: Fridays at 12:00 noon, beginning Oct. 6, 1989.

Gay Students Discussion Group

This group is designed for gay students who want to meet other gay students on campus and discuss issues such as: coming out, dating, family, homophobia, relationships. It will be conducted by Dr. Mark Koppel of the Psychology Department. Time: Wednesday at 3:00 p.m.

Overcoming Academic Stress

This workshop is for students who are especially uncomfortable while taking tests, giving presentations, or participating in classroom discussions and activities. Several methods will be discussed that can help to reduce this stress. Time: Thursdays at 1:00 p.m., beginning Oct. 5, 1989

Rap Group

(for women who have been victims of physical, verbal or sexual abuse)

This is an ongoing group for women who have been victims of any form of abuse. We will discuss its effects on our lives and help each other to grow happier and healthier. (Co-sponsored with the Women's Center) Time: Wednesdays at 11:00 a.m.

Women's Workshop: Transitions, Challenges and Choices

This workshop will focus on women's feelings in the exploration of transitions, choices and values in their lives. Time: Thursdays at 10:00 a.m., beginning Oct. 5, 1989.

Black student organization cites police insensitivity:BSCU opposes police allegations

By Lilyanne McClean
Assignment Editor

Abdul-Hassan Sharif, Vice-president of the Black Student Cooperative Union, said in an interview last night that a campus disturbance Friday night was a direct result of the campus police's insensitivity towards black students.

Campus police reported that 100 people were involved in a disturbance that became riotous and involved five local police stations.

According to Sharif, the incident could have been avoided if campus police had stayed at the party as they do at other activities. "Two officers sat outside during the production of Agnes of God and chatted," he said.

"We asked them to come at 8:00 p.m.," said Hope Nixon, Secretary of BSCU. "They came and then they left. If they had stayed, they could have prevented people from loitering and a crowd would have never formed."

Sgt. Newcombe could not be reached for additional comment.

Sharif added that the crowd was composed of people who were denied entrance to the party because they did not have escorts or MSC ID.

Sharif also said that this situation is just one of many times that the campus police have neglected to protect the BSCU students. "We were collecting money at the table and we needed protection," he said. "They always come after it is too late."

In addition, the police are always apt to refer to any black function as a riot, disturbance, or demonstration, according to Sharif. "They don't acknowledge the fact that the people inside, from BSCU, were having fun within school policies," he said.

Campus Police ReportFight erupts at BSCU event

By Lilyanne McClean
Assignment Editor

Campus police arrested a 22-year-old male last Friday for punching a campus police officer in the jaw during a disturbance in front of the Student Center that involved five local police departments, according to campus police.

Campus Police Sgt. Debra Newcombe said that a "riot" began after about 100 people were denied entrance to a party sponsored by the Black Student Cooperative Union.

Newcombe also said an unidentified male was kicked into unconsciousness. "We called for medical assistance, but he woke up and was carried off by one of his friends," she said.

The rioters resorted to kicking, punching, or hitting each other with motorcycle helmets according to Newcombe.

Three campus police officers first went to the Student Center at 12 p.m. when a BSCU representative called the station, saying that the party had reached its limit.

The same three officers later sustained injuries as they attempted to clear the crowd from in front of the student center. Two of the officers were treated at Mountainside Hospital and the third officer was treated at the MSC Health Center according to Newcombe.

The police departments called to assist included Little Falls, Essex County, Montclair, Bloomfield, and the Passaic County Sheriff's Department.

The Newark P.D. also called to offer assistance, according to Newcombe.

Other campus police matters included a threat made by two Clove Road Apartment residents against a unit manager. Newcombe said the residents threatened to "get even" with the unit manager if she wrote them up for having an illegal party on Sept. 14.

In Lot 23 on Sept 15, seven cars were stripped of their antennas and windshield wipers and bottles were thrown through the windshields.

A female resident of Webster Hall reported that she was being harassed by her boyfriend on Sept. 17. "This happens all the time," Newcombe said. "We usually just call the guy and try and calm him down."

Jello wrestling at MSC?

Team Challenge '90 kicks off

By Jolleen Newby
Correspondent

"Team Challenge '90," a new kind of sports program based on student participation, will begin its first season with a jello wrestling contest on Thursday, Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. in Panzer Gym. A feature match will also be held with wrestling coach Steve "The Strapper" Strellner.

Other contests, such as soccer, banner day, volleyball, a basketball triathlon, inner tube water polo, ultimate frisbee, and the final May event, track and field day, will follow monthly throughout the school year. All MSC students are invited to participate.

Holly Gera and Jo Santorine of Campus Recreation and Dave Masur of the Athletic Dept. are the creators of the innovative program. The Student Intramural Leisure Council is also donating its services.

"Team Challenge is designed to promote recreational sports and athletics as well as encouraging student involvement" in them, Santorine said. Gera added there are tentative plans for "events that have not been done by SILC or any other group on campus."

The organizers aim to involve residence halls, greek organizations, SGA organizations as well as independent students. Ideally, ten teams will compete, said Gera.

Registered participants will form teams of twelve—six men and six women—plus two men and two women alternates.

Each player will receive a "Challenge '90" tee-shirt and after jello wrestling, the winning teams for each event will earn cumulative points. A large silver cup goes to the final winner in May for display in the Student Center.

Jello Wrestling points will be scored on audience excitement and response and performance originality, among other categories.

Interested students are encouraged to volunteer for score-keeping and officiating, events management, and other posts. Others may simply be spectators and root for their friends.

Anyone interested should contact the campus recreation department and register as soon as possible.

Team Challenge '90 will be co-sponsored by Domino's Pizza (free pizza at selected events), Campus Recreation and the Athletic Dept.

The MSC Center for Continuing Education will co-sponsor a series of lectures with the Daughters of Israel Geriatric Center, West Orange, on topics concerning health workers.

All of the seminars are scheduled on Wednesdays, from 9:30 am until 4 pm, starting with the Sept. 27 discussion of "New Issues in Health Care Insurance"

Montclair State College will offer six graphic arts courses this fall, beginning Monday, Sept. 25, all co-sponsored by the Association for the Graphic Arts (AGA) and the college's Center for Continuing Education. Additional information is available from Gail Zambrano or Angela Yarkovsky at (212) 279-2100.

Craftspersons and others interested in participating in a flea market in Verona Sunday, Sept. 24, are being sought by the Montclair State College chapter of Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity which is planning the event to benefit the young family of an alumnus.

While proceeds from sales at individual tables will remain with the vendors, proceeds from the $15 table rentals will be contributed to the Flannery fund.

Alpha Phi Omega (APO) is a national co-ed service fraternity based on the principles of leadership, friendship and service with chapters on college campuses across the country. The fraternity has been active on the MSC campus since 1962.

Persons interested in participating as vendors should call Kim McGee at (201) 857-1271 and those wishing to make donations to the fund may send checks payable to Alpha Phi Omega and earmarked for the Paul Flannery Fund to APO President Kathy O'Brien, 80 Eagle Drive, Emerson, NJ

Montclair State College will offer six graphic arts courses this fall, beginning Monday, Sept. 25, all co-sponsored by the Association for the Graphic Arts (AGA) and the college's Center for Continuing Education. The courses, which run for six, eight, or 10 weeks, will be held from 7 to 9 pm on campus.

"How to Buy Printing" kicks off the fall slate on Monday, Sept. 25. The course will be taught by Bob Gardella, a purchasing agent at Revlon, Inc., Edison, NJ. Gardella, an AGA Evening School instructor for over 15 years, will also teach "Introduction to Printing Processes," one of three Thursday night courses offered this fall, all of which begin on Sept. 28.

"Estimating Printing I" will be taught on Tuesdays, beginning Sept. 26, by Arnold Egeland, estimator and production manager at Case-Hoyt Printers in New York City for the past 20 years.

Jack Letizia, director of sales at Redwood Press, Parsippany, NJ, will teach "Dynamics of Sales and Marketing" on Wednesdays, beginning Sept. 27. Letizia has more than 20 years of sales experience.

Corrections

In last week's issue of The Montclarion, it was reported that the Black Student Cooperative Union was attempting to change their name to Organization of Students for African-American Unity.

The name they actually seek is Organization for African Unity.

In the same edition, SGA treasurer Tim Nee was quoted as saying Plan B of Master Planning Committee proposals was "grossly over budget." Nee was actually referring to Plan C.

The Montclarion regrets any confusion that these errors may have caused.

Pre-med students study at Harvard

By Valerie Kalfrin
Features Editor

Terri Ronna and Michele Costanzo spent their summer in Boston, asking about condoms.

Well, not just condoms. AIDS prevention. Serious research, actually, for Harvard Medical School.

For Terri, now 24, it all began back in 1985 when a car accident made her reconsider her career goal as a professional dancer.

She decided to study medicine, aiming to become an orthopedic surgeon specializing in sports medicine. "I figured if I can't do it, I may as well be with the people," she says.

She transferred from the Alvin Ailey American Dance Center in New York City to Montclair, majoring in biology, where she met Michele in a chemistry class.

Michele, 22, started as a marketing major at Berkeley before coming to MSC. "I was really involved in the fashion industry, especially the advertising," she says. "I had to take a lab course in chemistry for a requirement, and from there it just snowballed."

Terri noticed there was no support system for pre-med students on campus, and in the fall of 1988, founded the Pre-Med/Professional Society on campus. She asked Michele to be her vice-president.

Last April, the two took 30 students to Harvard over the weekend for a tour. That's where they spied the posters advertising summer research opportunities.

"Michele and I just grabbed a bunch," Terri says, "and kept calling doctors until we finally got accepted into the summer program."

Dr. Paul Cleary of Harvard's Health Care Policy department accepted the girls and assigned them a project involving surveys of satisfied patients.

They proposed their summer research plans to Vaughn Vandergrift, dean of the school of math and science, and Bob Hilliard of the Alumni Association.

"He (Hilliard) coordinated the whole thing for us," Michele says, adding that the Alumni Association supplied them a grant along with the SGA and the medical school itself.

After the surveys, the two split up into areas of personal interest. Terri worked with Cleary's assistant on non-operative treatments of Chondromalacia, a chronic syndrome which softens cartilage in the knees of athletes.

Michele worked with a medical historian and a medical attorney on a follow-up study of a pre-marital screening case in Illinois.

Then came the AIDS research.

"He (Cleary) wanted to know what pharmacists' knowledge was about the prevention of AIDS and the use of condoms," Michele explains.

So she and Terri randomly interviewed pharmacists all over Boston for facts about AIDS and the different types of condoms.

"It was like play-acting," Michele says. "You assumed a role and you performed."

"It was a lot of fun," Terri adds. "It was a little embarrassing at times, but it was good."

At the end of the project, they wrote a paper which is pending publication at Harvard entitled, "Pharmacist Knowledge of AIDS Prevention." Except for the ending statistical analysis done by professors, they are credited with the entire work.

This fall, Terri plans to observe an orthopedic surgeon from her former alma mater and the New York City Ballet, while continuing her dance classes.

She also plans on studying at the National Sports Institute of China this summer before applying to Harvard Medical School in the fall.

Michele plans to continue developing a national advisory program for undergraduate pre-med students, a project she started over the summer.

"We hope it'll act as a 'reach-out' program to bridge the gap between the undergraduate program and the medical profession. I think it's really going to take off," she says.

With a prestigious research project behind them, anything can happen. As Terri says, "Have the courage to set your sights high, and the wisdom to see that everything is possible when you believe."

After all, what have they got to lose?

Rainbow Lobby fights for fairness

By Alice Singer
Correspondent

You are not alone if you feel that elected leaders are not representing and protecting your rights, or if the government is not dealing with issues that need to be addressed.

For these reasons, the Rainbow Lobby began.

Our country ranks 75th in voter participation among democratic nations. According to the Rainbow Lobby, many Americans feel no reason to go to the polls; they feel that there is little chance that their voices will be heard and effect a change.

The lobby, started in 1984 and originally composed of activists and attorneys from the Civil Rights movement, has made fair elections and democratic rights its chief crusade.

The lobby has recently opened a fundraising headquarters at 8 Park Street in Montclair, and plans to come to MSC during this semester.

Julie Lenner, campus recruiter, explains that the lobby is defined as a liberal organization, although its members are people from all over the political spectrum.

to the lobby representatives.

The lobby helped draft the Fair Elections Bill, House of Representatives No. 1582, which is currently in possession ballot access and media coverage. The Lobby hopes by letting new voices be heard and innovative ideas be expressed, voting will increase.

Lobby supporters and the U.S. Students Association are urging college students around the country to fight for alternatives to an ultra-conservative, right-wing monopoly by supporting H. R. 1582.

N.J. Rainbow Lobby director Bonny Gildin believes that college students play an integral part in the fate of our nation.

"The fight for the students of the late '80s and '90s is to stop the erosion of democracy which is threatening all those gains we made," she said.

Julie Lenner agrees, explaining that once a schedule is set up, representatives from the lobby plan to visit MSC one day a week to recruit students to go door-to-door and obtain support for H. R. 1582.

The lobby has also been a strong advocate for civil, women's, and gay rights, and democracy abroad. An American with Disabilities bill is currently waiting to be passed in the Senate, and the U.S. cut aid to Zaire because of lobby-organized protests during a recent visit by the President of Zaire against the treatment of that country's citizens.

The lobby is also working to influence companies to stop buying goods from South Africa, and is working on legislation for issues such as homelessness and environmental pollution, and drafting a federal AIDS Bill of Rights.

If you are also concerned with these issues or would like more information, contact the Montclair office at 744-5540.

It has more than 150,000 supporters nationwide (3,300 in New Jersey alone) who are concerned with legislation that they believe will strengthen their democratic institutions, protect their fundamental rights, and increase citizen participation in the election process, according of Al Swift, chairperson of the Washington State Subcommittee on elections, and is scheduled for hearing in the fall.

If this bill is passed by Congress, it would equalize the standards for independent, non-party candidates in terms of fair

Clean and Cool

Remember when teenagers thought it was cool to do drugs? The peer-pressure of yesteryear dictated that smoking pot was the thing to do.

Then cocaine came into vogue and people became a bit more hesitant about being cool. Now we have crack, and we all know that crack isn't cool. Crack is a one way ride into hell and everyone knows it. The sad part is that some people can't get off.

The war on drugs is not only at the political level. It has filtered down and has become every citizen's personal problem. Some people try to ignore it, but the problem has spread too far and no one can hide from it.

Living so close to New York City, we have a first hand view of the horror in the streets. There are drug zombies everywhere. This is no longer a problem which is confined to a bunch of peace-loving young people.

As a matter of fact, the modern drug users can be violent, sometimes even resorting to murder, in order to support their habit.

Habit seems a weak word to describe the grip drugs have on users these days. Obsession, addiction, mania, or fixation may be better terms to use.

It seems that people who don't use drugs are becoming a lot less tolerant of those who do. The peer-pressure has eased up tremendously and it is no longer socially acceptable among peers to indulge in dope.

Why? Social consciousness has been raised and people are getting mad at the stupidity some people display when they give in to the drug temptation.

It's no longer funny to watch your friends act silly when they're high. It's kind of embarrassing. The people who once laughed at the antics are now shaking their heads in disgust.

There is a new way to be cool in the '80's and that is to turn away from drugs.

Taking drugs is like tying a noose around your own neck and leaping from the ledge of decent living. Being in control of your life and your actions has come into vogue. If you give in to drugs, you'll just dangle from your own noose like a useless dummy.

M.J. Says... Plan C too much $$

As many of us are aware, after seeing the bill for this semester, the cost of higher education is not decreasing.

However, after some actions this summer, I question if this is really possible.

As many may already be aware, this past semester ended with a pending decision of which Facilities Master Plan would be accepted by the Board of Trustees. With roots in the passage of the Bond Act of 1988 in NJ, where Montclair will be receiving $13 million from the state and must match that by 50 percent or $6.5 million.

Part of this $6.5 million is already being financed through a tuition increase of $11.00 per year for the next four years. Our tuition, combined with the state allotment and "estimated projected" amounts of deferred maintenance, college cash reserves and private contributions (the last three of which no amount is guaranteed) the college estimates a total of about $24.5 million plus loans.

At the end of last semester two plans were in existence—one within budget-known as Plan B, the other nearly $8 million over budget-Plan C.

Based on the earlier thoughts of this article, which plan do you think should have been passed? The 2 plans were basically the same-both including an extension of the library, classroom renovations, a receiving building and a new large classroom/office building.

Also included in both plans is a 600 space parking garage (one that will be subsidized by you, through daily charges). The essential difference is that Plan B called for a new Residence Hall, where as Plan C called for the renovation of Russ and Chapin Hall back into residence halls.

Yes, a renovation is less expensive than a new residence hall, so Plan C would have a lesser effect on the resident students who will be subsidizing this improvement.

However, because classes will be lost in Russ and Chapin, a larger classroom building must be built on Lot 13 - a cost that puts Plan C over budget - a cost that has the potential to be subsidized by all students.

The visions of both plans will without doubt add to existing excellence of Montclair, but let's remain realistic about costs.

At the July 13 Board meeting, Plan C was recommended by the Facilities Master Committee Act passed by the Board of Trustees.

So as we presently stand, we will be taking this over budgeted plan to the Board of Higher education for final approval. We currently stand to be at risk for once again seeing our tuition creep up the scale.

Although no definite increases have been announced, keep in mind-we will have an $8 million over budgeted plan in need of financing. If other methods do no avail-which they are not guaranteed-a tuition increase may be the only alternative.

As our motto "Carpe Diem" states-yes, seize the day, but do not expand the vision of squeezing out it's most valuable resource—we, the students.

Is SOUP soluble?

To the Editor:

As I returned to M S C. this fall for my junior year, I found the campus to be virtually unchanged since last spring.

The buildings are still standing, the cafeteria food remains mediocre, and parking is still horrendous.

The campus is virtually unchanged, but not unscathed.

The word "SOUP" has been spray painted on various parts of the campus. I'm sure you've noticed.

It is highly unlikely that someone has a strong affection for hot diluted beef and vegetables. More likely it is the acronym for 'Student Organized Uninhibited Publication.'

On September 14 of this year, SOUP (the magazine, not the appetizer) held a meeting for new members and to assemble so that SOUP may continue to exist.

Having contributed to SOUP, I was interested in being involved again and to find out what the deal was with the graffiti.

The topic of the painting did come up during the meeting. It was not looked upon as an act of vandalism. Rather it was labeled, "a dumb thing to do."

Leaving your car lights on all day or saying your dog ate your homework are dumb things to do.

Painting SOUP on a college campus is a conscious act which requires thought, especially when repeated several times over.

To ensure the integrity of the magazine, I suppose, it was suggested that the paint is very soluble and will eventually rinse away after a few rain storms.

To the best of my knowledge, the paint remains the same.

Ironically, none of the people at the SOUP meeting attended because they had seen SOUP painted on the library steps.

One can also safely assert that none of SOUP's readers will treasure their copy because they had seen SOUP painted near Blanton Hall.

Who is responsible for the painting and why it was done are not important. It is important that the guilty person or persons clean up their mess because kids, recess is over!

Thanks ahead of time.

No Hazing

To the Editor:

This letter is in reference to the editorial featured in the September 14th issue of the Montclarion entitled "National Sororities: No Hazing."

While I applaud the efforts of the three sororities (Phi Sig SDT and D-Phi-E) to stop hazing and focus on scholarship and service, I think it is important to mention that we have three other national sororities whose goals have always been service and scholarship.

They are Delta Sigma Theta, Alpha Kappa Alpha, and Zeta Phi Beta.

These organizations belong to the National Pan-Hellenic Council and are renowned for their community service.

Their major thrust revolves around academic excellence, public service and cultural enrichment de-emphasizing the social side of sorority life.

To that end, the requirements for membership in these prestigious organizations include a minimum G.P.A. of 2.5, leadership skills, and community involvement.

I believe the time has come for all Greek organizations to return to the original philosophies on which they were founded (which I'm sure do not include hazing) and for us to salute those who have never gone astray.

ZBT offends

To the Editor:

When I first saw a recent Zeta Beta Tau flyer that said "(Sorry...No Pussies, Wimps, Fags or Personal Checks)," I tried to accept it as just another example of the existing prejudices or our culture.

However, this incident is not just prejudicial; it is both harmful and potentially dangerous.

As a woman, I must voice my outrage at the use of the word "pussies." It is not only chauvinistic but also derogatory toward every woman.

The other element of the flyer that is offensive is the use of the word "fags."

The homosexual community has enough to deal with without being debased and insulted by a gang of homophobic boys.

If the words "nigger" or "spic" were used on this flyer, the administration and the majority of the student population would have demanded justice for such an outright discriminatory insult.

Due to the fact that this incident is directed toward women and homosexuals, nothing will be said or done because these two groups have historically been passive and non-threatening to the majority.

I am voicing my opinion because if someone does not then these attitudes will turn into violent actions.

The members of ZBT should think of what their flyers mean to people before they post them.

Words influence minds which control actions.

Intelligent words create intelligent and compassionate minds, which then motivate intelligent, compassionate and humanistic actions.

Want a way to make every Montclair State student with a driver's license cringe?

Just mention the word "parking." Who hasn't experienced Montclair's four-wheeled nightmare?

Last semester, one would have to be at the campus by 7:30 in the morning to get a decent spot in Lot 13. Now, it seems, one must be here by 7:30 to get a decent spot in the Quarry!

Think I'm exaggerating? During the first week of school, I had problems finding a decent spot in the CLOVE ROAD lot!

Now, when has anybody- ANYBODY- had a problem parking in Clove Road?

Not too many students want to park out in the God-forsaken wilderness, but through need, they don't have much of a choice.

Oh, sure. You could park illegally. Park in a yellow tow-away zone. You smile, and think, "Those Montclair cops don't check up on that!"

That may have been true last year, my friend, but I have noticed a lot of flatbed tow trucks yanking cars and trucks from their "parking spaces".

But parking in the yellow zones doesn't really tick me off. It's the parking in a designated handicapped space.

"Hey, nobody parks there, anyway!" you may say. True, until a person who genuinely needs the space come along a guess what? Some lazy numb-nut who didn't want to walk a little to get to their class in Russ Hall took it.

Those spaces are reserved for those who really need them, bub. And I don't think your appeal to the SGA under "mentally handicapped" will work, either.

Parking is a big problem here at Montclair, and these situations are just two examples. Montclair is going to begin construction on a new six hundred space car garage in the near future.

Unfortunately, most of us will have gotten our degrees by the time it is completed.

But until I hear a better suggestion as to how to lessen the problem, all I can say is just to take it with a grain of salt, and tolerate it for the time being. Now, pardon me.

I have to trudge back down to Clove Road now.

Even with 28 albums in 20 years, Elton John still rocks at age 43.

Record Rap:

Elton John

By Jon Max Green
Correspondent

Life styles of the flamboyant and famous wouldn't be the same without the talented face of Elton John. However, the rocker/R&B man has recently hung up his bejeweled Donald Duck suit that he donned for a crowd of over 400,000 at a free concert in Central Park. He also auctioned off his 54-inch boots that he wore for The Who's rock opera "Tommy."

It seems that Elton John (or Reginald Kenneth Dwight, which he answers to only when his mother is calling) is taking a much harder, more serious look at the music he is putting out.

Recently Elton John has gone back to his roots and returned with old friend and lyricist Bernie Taupin on his new album "Sleeping With the Past." In case you're not familiar with their work as a team, the two have produced such hits as "Your Song," "Daniel," "Crocodile Rock," "Rocket Man," and "Don't Let the Sun go Down on Me."

If you're not familiar with their work, then you had no pre-teen life and you've traveled "Where no man has gone before." The two are rhythm & blues smart guys. So if you are like me and happen to like your rhythm & blues with "Elton and Bernie," then you'll love this new album.

R&B is the format that was closely followed on the album. It was the band's feeling that they had become too diverse musically and they wanted to get back to a sound that was all their own. As a result, Elton and Taupin were extremely picky as to what went on the album and what was cut. Even if the song was good, it was put aside if it wasn't an R&B. The outcome is pure old-style-Elton.

So here's a message to those who criticize his new music by saying, "I like old Elton." Although this album cannot compete with the likes of "Captain Fantastic" or "The Brown Dirt Cowboy," which debuted at number one on the pop charts, "Sleeping With the Past" shows a definite swing back to Elton John's future.

Who's Back, That's Who

By Chip Bogdanski
Reporter

In July 1964, 4 mods from Great Britain began a musical group known then as "The High Numbers." They would soon rename themselves "The Who," a name under which they would become famous for their guitar-smashing, microphone-twirling, and hotel room trashing antics...but more importantly, for concept albums such as "Tommy" and "Quadrophenia," an appearance in 1969 at Woodstock, and one this summer in America.

My first impression upon seeing The Who this summer was that I was witnessing a Las Vegas act. Along with original members Pete Townshend, John Entwistle and Roger Daltrey, their large entourage included studio drummer Simon Phillips, keyboard player John "Rabbit" Brundrick, 3 back-up singers, a percussionist, a 2nd lead guitar, and a 5-piece horn section.

The Who opened their performance with a short set from their rock opera "Tommy," and went into such vintage classics as "Substitute," "My Generation," and "Can't Explain."

After a brief intermission, the band returned to finish the second half of the show with the climax of such hits as "Baba O'Riley," "Won't Get Fooled Again," and "Who Are You."

The large stage of muscians were well in key. Daltrey "Still Sings A Razor Line," Townshend erupted with occasional jumps and his own "Windmill" style guitar playing, and "The Quiet One," John Entwistle's bass was magic, as his stoic stage presence still remains uncorrupted.

The Who ended their U.S. tour in Los Angeles earlier this month at the Universal Amphitheater with an encore performance of their opera Tommy, which they performed at the start of their tour at Radio City Music Hall in New York.

The Los Angeles finale included accompaniments from musical legends Elton John, Billy Idol, Steve Winwood, Patti LaBelle, and Phil Collins.

The Dead Start A New Life

By Rob Campos
Correspondent

Smoke and the aroma that follows the people who follow the Grateful Dead across the country filled the Brenden Byrne Arena on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 6 and 7 during the concerts given by the Jerry Garcia Band.

Jerry Garcia, lead guitarist for the Grateful Dead, performed much of his original solo work, a couple of Dead songs, and some cover tunes with his band. This band included, for the night, Clarence Clemmens, whose saxophone complimented Jerry's guitar perfectly.

Jerry was also accompanied by another Dead member, Bob Weir, who opened the show with an acoustic set that included Bob Wasserman's God-given talent on bass.

The audience was composed mostly of Deadheads coming in hopes of not only hearing

Jerry's solo music, but also music from his other more popular collaborators.

Much of the audience seemed a little disappointed as Jerry played only a couple of Dead songs and didn't come back on for an encore.

Those who came to the show to hear the Grateful Dead's tunes were slightly down, but those who came just to hear great music left with total fulfillment as this marks the last major concert event at the Byrne Arena for the summer season.

Tom Jones - a must see

By Candy Cordes
Correspondent

Tom Jones, performed at Drew University, is a must-see for adventure-loving theatre goers! Yes, it is performed by the New Jersey Shakespeare Festival, but no, it isn't Shakespeare.

John Morrison's adaptation somehow chomped through 600 pages of the original script by Henry Fielding, and his accomplishment was a production under three hours packed with everything imaginable. Tom Jones is relentlessly entertaining. As the play unfolds, the protagonist, Tom, must defend his virtue in spite of his illegitimate birth and, of course, his love interest is inaccessible due to the reigning social hypocrisy of the 18th century.

However, Tom goes to great lengths to prove his love, including falling into bed (or the bushes) with almost every other female cast member. Tom Jones is a comedy, so it ends on an upbeat note and leaves the audience refreshed after having laughed for a couple of hours.

On a second note, Sheridan Crist, who appeared in MSC's Equus last semester as a guest artist in the role of Dr. Martin Dysart, appears in Tom Jones in the riotous role of the irrational Irish gentleman. So if an entertaining and affordable evening at the theatre is due, this lavishly costumed, hysterical production is worth the trip.

NOLAN'S NOTES

by Jarrett Nolan

Tom Petty refused to back down to Jersey state-park officials. Petty has had Greenpeace representatives with him at every stop on his current tour and was infuriated when told that Jersey has a law that "bans private-interest groups on state-park grounds." Park officials planned to keep Greenpeace from entering Petty's recent date at the Arts Center in Holmdel. Petty threatened: "If Greenpeace aren't allowed in, I'm not going on." Soon after, officials broke down. "New Jersey" by Bon Jovi was the first U.S. album to be released in Russia. The members were to receive a flat fee of $9,600 from Melodiya, a Soviet label, but since rubles aren't allowed to out of the USSR, they settled for a truckload of firewood, instead.

MINI-NOTES: Eric Clapton finished recording his tentatively titled Journeyman album, which has George Harrison, Phil Collins, Robert Cray, Chaka Khan, and Daryl Hannah all making guest appearances...The album is due later this fall...New Kids On The Block are talking to Hanna-Barbera about a Saturday-morning cartoon based on them. (I would normally comment here, but remember when we used to watch the JACKSON 5 and OSMONDS 10-15 years ago?)...Former Cars-frontman, Ric Ocasek, married Paulina Porizkova in August...#1's: Pop: "Girl I'm Gonna Miss You"; Album: Girl You Know It's True both by Milli Vanilli; Soul: "Can't Get Over You" by Frankie Beverly & Maze.

MINI-NOTES II: Quote of the week: "Ever notice how a Black group like Public Enemy takes it on the chin for their stupid, bigoted interviews while homophobic, racist...and not terribly bright comments by white artists like Axl Rose make the cover of Rolling Stone unremarked?" From R.J. Smith in the Aug. 22 issue of the Village Voice. How true...The answer to last week's question: Milli Vanilli is Turkish for "positive energy." This week's question: "It's No Crime" recently topped the soul chart and is currently climbing the pop. Babyface has a reputation as a much sought after producer. What is Babyface's real name?...Think about it...Until next week...

GIANTS UPDATE: Giants 24, Lions 14

Defensive lineman, Eric Dorsey broke a bone in his foot and is expected to be lost for the remainder of the season.

Phil Simms completed 20 of 26 passes for 218 yards and two touchdowns. Simms threw no interceptions and beat the Blitz repeatedly.

Lawrence Taylor is simply the best defensive player in the history of football. LT had 2 1/2 sacks and forced a fumble.

Cards come into Giants Stadium (2-0) with wins over the Lions and Seattle Seahawks.

MAGIC MIKE'S PICKS:

Favorite	Underdog	Pick
OILERS (-3)	BILLS	OILERS (-3)
BEARS (-8)	LIONS	LIONS (8)
REDSKINS (-4)	COWBOYS	REDSKINS(-4)

Record to date: 2-1-0

The Bottom Line

by Matt Wintner

Even though the 49ers and the Lions did not play against each other this weekend, both Jerry Rice and Barry Sanders were victimized by a combination of the instant replay rule and poor officiating.

The first incident in question occurred in the second quarter of the Giant-Lions game when Barry Sanders fumbled on the Giants 10 yard line. After the change of possession took place, the referee decided to have the instant replay crew look at the replay to see if a mistake had been made. In this case CBS could only offer two camera angles to the replay crew. Both angles did not clearly show Sanders hitting the ground before the ball came loose and the play was not reversed. It seems that replay officials seem to have an easier time making controversial calls thanks to the reverse angle.

The other incident involving instant replay occurred in the final minutes of the 49ers-Buccaneers matchup.

With the 49ers trailing by three points late in the game, quarterback Joe Montana threw a 32 yard pass to his favorite target Jerry Rice. It was caught in the back of the end zone and was ruled a touchdown. However, it was clear that Rice only had one foot in bounds. The replay crew reviewed the play and overruled the call.

These two situations make you wonder how much longer instant replay will stay in the NFL. Many people will tell you that instant replay should not be a part of football. Just because society as we know it today lives in a video age, it doesn't mean that football games have to join the club as well.

The main reason to get rid of instant replay is that since its induction, the quality of officiating has declined considerably. Officials seem to be more tentative and less decisive in making close calls when a game is on the line. If you take away instant replay, officials will have to concentrate more on what's going on instead of letting camera angles decide a team's fate.

Five days ago, Notre Dame(2-0) went to Ann Arbor with its number one ranking, showed it off to Michigan for an afternoon, and went back home to South Bend with an impressive 24-19 victory.

Yes, the Fighting Irish are for real and the chances of successfully defending their national championship is very possible.

It seems that a combination of the Notre Dame's strength and a relatively weak schedule should bring them another undefeated season. That is until the last game of the season when the Irish travel south to battle the Miami Hurricanes(2-0) on Thanksgiving weekend. Remember Miami? The Irish sure do. The Hurricanes lost to the Irish 31-30 in South Bend last year in the toughest game played by both teams last season. The Irish victory over Miami led them to a national title while the Hurricanes had to live with a season of what could have been.

Forget about bowl games this year. Expect both Notre Dame and Miami to be undefeated coming into their head to head matchup. This game is for the national championship and could be the biggest game of the decade.

Devils' Weekly

By Michael Walmsley
Sports Editor

Is the cliché, "I went to the fights and a hockey game broke out," familiar to all you hockey fans? Well, on Friday I went to a Montclair State fall baseball game and a talk with All-Star NJ Devil goalie Sean Burke broke out.

It was the fourth inning and Rutgers was leading Montclair State by the score of 2 to 1. And on any other day the final outcome would have been my top story of the day. But not on this day.

The reason I was at the game was to get familiar with a camera I've never used before. After snapping a few pictures, I felt fairly comfortable with the Cannon and decided to call it a day. As I was leaving, I looked up the first base line and noticed a familiar face taking in the game.

I couldn't place the face at first, and his shades didn't help my perception. After a few quick glances I decided to ask this familiar face if he was who I thought he was.

Are you Sean Burke? "Yeah", he said, and we shook hands. I asked him what he was doing at a Montclair State fall baseball game. He told me he was watching his friend Joe DeMiro. Joe is a pitcher for MSC who had met Burke at Cedar Grove Inn (CGI's).

I didn't want to pull out my reporter's pad and start peppering Sean with question after question. I didn't feel like that would have been appropriate. So, I told him I was the sports editor of the school's paper and that I cover the Devils on a weekly basis. I then gave him a copy of the paper and asked him if I could take a couple of pictures for this week's issue. He was very cooperative. After I snapped a few pictures I decided to ask him a few casual questions about this year's team and how his conditioning to rehabilitate his knee was coming along.

"My knee is getting better and I should be back practicing next week," he said. I asked him how he hurt it and he informed me that he "went down to make a save and that was it." I gather from his tone of concern that the injury is healing fine and he's ready to start preparing for the upcoming season.

The promising young goalie couldn't offer much insight concerning the defensive situation. I asked him how the defense looked and what was going to happen now that the Devils had an overabundance of people trying to win a limited number of jobs? He said, "I couldn't say who was going to stay or not and camp would have to decide." This is the answer I also got when I inquired into the back up goalie situation.

Burke seemed pleased with what he had seen in camp and noted: "we're very excited about this year." I asked him about Sylvain Turgeon and how he looked in camp. Burke said, "Turgeon looks really good." I commented to him that the speed of Ruotsalainen and the goal scoring of Poddubny was going to help the team offensively. He agreed and added that he felt positive about the upcoming year.

After a few minutes of talking hockey, the subject switched to baseball. My informal hockey interview was over. We sat down in the bleachers to watch the baseball game and talk baseball in general.

"I'm a big baseball fan," Burke said. I asked him if he preferred the Mets or the Yankees. "I'm a Toronto Blue Jays fan because that's where I live and that's where I'm from." He added, "I went down to the Dome this summer for a few games." The dome he speaks of is the newly constructed Sky Dome in Toronto. Burke went on to say, "I'm not very happy with the play of the Blue Jays this past week." Although they were still in first place leading Baltimore by two games in the American League East.

As we continued to watch Montclair State lose to Rutgers, I realized that Burke was a youthful age of twenty-two the age of most students here. (Give or take a few years). And I asked him what he thought about MSC and school in general. "I might be taking some business classes this summer," said Burke. I informed him of the unusually high girl to guy ratio we have at our fine institution. He seemed excited about this statistic, but added "I've been going out with the same girl for three years." Sorry all you female Devils fans!

I enjoyed meeting Sean Burke, not just because I'm a sports writer and Devils fan, but because I could relate to him on the level of my fellow students and friends. I wasn't in awe of the talented goalie's presence, and it wasn't because I didn't recognize or respect his talent as a hockey player. On the contrary, I enjoy watching him make kick and glove save's. But I wasn't in awe because Sean Burke was really down to earth. Some stars need that to boost their egos, not Burke.

As the MSC game rolled into the later innings, it was time for me to leave for work. I told Sean Burke what a pleasure it was to hang with him. And he told me I was the greatest sports person in the world. (If you believe that previous comment I'll sell you the rights to the Meadowlands swamp water for your newly formed spring water bottling company.)

Eh Hoser, don't park your car so close to the hockey rink. It might get struck with a puck.

Hawks rip Warriors

By Mike Cohen
Correspondent

Quarterback Ed Baffige passed for 200 yards and running back Dan Walsh rushed for 121 yards more as the Red Hawks defeated the Warriors of East Stroudsburg State University 20-19.

A crowd of 1,000 rain soaked fans showed up at Eiler Martin Stadium in East Stroudsburg, Pa.

Baffige hit wide receiver Amod Fields with 21 seconds left in the game to cap the 60 yard 10 play drive that began with Derrick McCoy's 32 yard kickoff return. Montclair State was helped by a personal foul on East Stroudsburg's all american linebacker Pat Brady that put the Red Hawks on the Warriors 13 yard line. Fields then caught an 11 yard pass that brought the ball to the Warriors 2. Amod then made a leaping catch of Ed Baffige's pass for the touchdown.

Montclair State was able to overcome a sloppily played first half in which there were several snaps, including one that led to an East Stroudsburg touchdown. A poor kicking game also added to the Red Hawk woes as Mike Attardi missed a 20 yard field goal.

The second half of the game was highlighted by several great diving catches by Amod Fields (10 catches for 136 yards and 2 touchdowns) and the outstanding running of Dan Walsh. Not to be outdone, the defense had an incredible game holding ESU to 205 yards of total offense. Paul Cioffi created havoc in the Warriors backfield with 11 tackles and 2 quarterback sacks. Matt Clark recovered 2 ESU fumbles.

It was a typical East Stroudsburg-Montclair State game as 6 of the last 8 games have been decided by a touchdown or less, while 5 of these 6 have been by a field goal or less.

Women's soccer

By Michael Walmsley
Sports Editor

This year a women's soccer team has officially been added to MSC's varsity schedule.

The team is led by first year coach Peter Latartara.

Latartara takes over a women's soccer program that, until this year, was a group of athlete's getting together after classes playing as a club. With no formal schedule or recognition. But the program has changed.

I spoke with Coach Latartara last week and asked him about the origin of his newly formed program. "For a number of years students were clamoring for a team with a full time schedule."

The full time schedule consists of a sixteen game slate in the New Jersey Athletic Conference (NJAC).

Before the start of play this year, the athlete's have had only three weeks to prepare. This is a concern of coach Latartara. The coach said that "the other teams are established varsity programs so it will not be easy." But the soccer coach seemed confident that the team would "by the end of the season, win our share of games."

Devils' Burke at MSC—see p. 19

The make-up of the team, according to Latartara "consists of primarily sophmores with a handful of juniors and freshmen."

But the coach was happy with the whole team in general. "This is a first year effort and student support is welcomed," said coach Latartara when asked about student support for the team. Coach Latartara concluded by saying that "The girls work hard and practice every night. They are very determined to do the best they can."

MSC soccer past and present

By Jon R. Capristo
Correspondent

The Montclair State soccer team thrives on success. Since the arrival of head coach Dave Masur, in 1987, the team's record has continued to improve itself. In the 87 season they posted a record of 7 wins 5 losses and 2 ties.

Although falling short of winning the conference in the '88 season, their record improved considerably to 17-4-3. They went on to capture the ECAC (Eastern Coast Athletic Conference) championship by defeating Drew University 1-0 in the semi-finals. In the finals, they defeated NJIT 2-0, making them first time winners of the ECAC regional championship.

Coach Masur is especially happy with last year's success. However, he made his point clear by saying "that was last season and now it's this season, so it's time for our team to re-focus our attention to what we have to do each day."

Despite losing three games at the start of this season, Montclair decided to re-group and has bounced back, winning two games in a row.

With the exception of the six returning seniors, this team has a young roster. Some new comers that can really provide a positive impact on the season's outcome are freshman defenseman, Hugo Munoz, who Masur says "came in out of shape but has now regained some form and has really played well...we have a lot of confidence in him."

Another player to look out for is Vinnie Palmiero, who Masur says was "hampered with injuries earlier but is doing exceptionally well now."

William Bustamante, a freshman from St. Benedicts High School, who starts at midfield, is another newcomer.

"There are some other new players who are just getting the feel of things...it's hard to break into a team that's returning eight starters," said Masur.

Of the eight returning starters, there are six seniors who provide leadership on and off of the field. They are defenseman Bill Fitzpatrick, forward Adam McNally, midfielder Charlie Smith, defenseman Tom Conroy, and the Co-Captains, defenseman Rob Chesney and defenseman Roger Rubunetti.

Masur is grateful for the quality of his players along with their inner desire to want to play competitive soccer. He thanks the athletic department for their support and mentions that "it is because of the athletic department that the soccer schedule has a positive impact on the players mental outlook of the game and their self image."

However, a more competitive schedule seemed to have its negative affects on Montclair State in the beginning of the season, as they went 1-3-1 in their first five games. The first of their losses was dropped to George Washington College, a Division I team, final score 4-2.

Montclair's second and third losses occurred during the Elizabethtown Soccer Tournament. Although unhappy with the outcomes, coach Masur was pleased with their efforts in all three of their losses.

Both the coach and the players feel that they are over the hump now and they went into their sixth game ready to play, facing their rival opponent, NJIT, at home. Montclair went on top just three minutes into the match when Kevin Plado fired in his second goal of the season. Plado may never have scored that goal if it weren't for Fernando Barboto, who managed to elude two defenders before threading a pass to Plado.

Montclair State got their insurance goal during the second half when Charlie Smith chipped a perfect pass from Hugo Munoz into the goal.

A third goal was added from the foot of Antonio Alcalaide and the assist went to William Bustamante, making the final score 3-0. In the match, the Montclair State defense, led by Rob Chesney, managed to hold their opponent to only three shots, while the offense unleashed 21 shots of their own.

Montclair made it two wins in a row on Saturday afternoon when they played Rutgers-Camden, beating them 2-0.

Goals were scored by Gus Moramarco and Antonio Alcalaide. It was Montclair's first conference game this season, making it a big win. They have 7 more conference games to play. If Montclair State can win their conference this season, they would earn an automatic bid into this year's ECAC tournament.

The next two games for Montclair State are Saturday night, Sept. 23rd against Rutgers-New Brunswick and Wednesday, Sept. 27th against William Patterson.

Two MSC varsity soccer players exchange a pass, on route to a 3-0 victory over NJIT. The team went into last night's game against Jersey City with a 3-3-1 record.
